MESSAGE FROM THE CHANCELLOR

Ms Nonkululeko Nyembezi

Sanibonani and good day to you.

My name is Nonkululeko Nyembezi and I am the Chancellor of the Durban University of Technology.

By the powers vested in me as Chancellor, I now constitute this virtual graduation event for the Durban University of Technology.

Congratulations to Ms Thembu Mtshali-Jones, who will be receiving an honorary doctoral degree, Doctor of Philosophy in Visual Arts in the Faculty of Arts and Design. Thembu Mtshali-Jones is a multitalented, celebrated artists as a singer, actress, producer and playwright.

Ms Mtshali-Jones is currently one of the leads in Imbewu where she stars as MaNdlovou. Imbewu, The Seed was produced for ETV and has been awarded the fastest growing TV drama. We welcome Ms Thembu Mtshali-Jones to the DUT family.

Congratulations to our newest alumni, the graduating class of 2021. You have accomplished an enormous amount and you have even greater potential than when you began your studies here at the Durban University of Technology. You have earned your qualification and you have accomplished so much.

For some, you will be earning your undergraduate degrees, for others, this will mark the culmination of your postgraduate and professional degrees. For all of us though, I am fully aware that our actions to prevent the further spread of COVID-19 may have caused a disruption to this special occasion. I am as heartbroken as you are that your graduation from the Durban University of Technology has been impacted by this global pandemic.

It is my utmost wish that you remain connected with your lecturers, your friends and your classmates. Remain steadfast, as I am in the knowledge that your DUT education and the relationships you made, the learning you achieved and the experiences you had during your time at DUT will serve you well in the years to come.

You are DUT for life.

MESSAGE FROM THE VICE-CHANCELLOR AND PRINCIPAL

Professor Thandwa Mthembu

On behalf of DUT people, I take this opportunity to congratulate you on your important personal accomplishment. We recognize that this milestone carries with it important meanings, part of which suggests you have maintained the discipline of your thoughts and behavior characteristic of DUT people. Without the requirement of discipline, this day may not have been possible for many of you. For this reason, I dare say that the very discipline you have demonstrated thus far will carry you through your next personal growth trajectories, ranging from further studies, starting a career, starting your own business to even starting a family.

To borrow from Jim Collins, a combination of a culture of discipline and an ethic of entrepreneurship produces "the magical alchemy of great performance". We, thus, have no doubt that focused and disciplined as you were during your studies, and with DUT entrepreneurial flair we have been instilling over a number of years now, you will be greatly successful in your pursuits.

More especially over the last few years of study at DUT, you would have appreciated the strategic approach, outcomes and impacts of our teaching-learning and research-innovation philosophy. We have sought to position DUT as a university of and for its broader society. We exist because our people must use their individual and collective creativity, innovation and entrepreneurial flair to solve perennial and new problems our broader society faces. Solutions to these must contribute towards improving the lives and livelihoods in our society. Through our 'Innovative Research and Curricula', we expect you to become a model DUT 'Adaptive Graduate' who will unleash your creativity and imagination to become the source of change and advancement. By 2030 we will be a vanguard of that change and advancement in society. We see you as an equal partner in this historic voyage we have just embarked upon.

Your graduation coincides with a myriad of challenges confronting the world, the African continent and South Africa as a nation. We do not expect you to feel sorry for yourselves or mourn the persistence of these problems. As DUT, we have accepted Pascal Finnette's assertion that people are a source of everything that happens across all institutions of society. This means that it is people who are behind the problems we know. Similarly, we know that it is a different type of people who contribute ideas that will lead to lasting solutions. In the recent past, I said the following when unpacking the Stewardship Perspective of ENVISION2030:

It is about being true and selfless stewards of everyone and everything we are custodians of. It is about our deep conviction and purity of character in our collective quest to reach our ultimate goal. It is about something deeper, irreducible, somewhat intangible, that will sustain us on a flight to greatness. Allow me to say Stewardship is essentially our compass towards our ultimate and shared destiny of greatness.

As a DUT graduate, you should enthusiastically contribute towards the lives and livelihoods of all our people. In everything you do and will do onwards, may you demonstrate DUT's DNA and the DUT-Way. May you live all DUT's Values and Principles as part of your way of life. That way, you will stand out and be seen to be a distinctive DUT graduate that all will wish to associate with, perhaps employ and perhaps partner with on big and innovative projects.

We wish you all the best in your future endeavours. Become the change you have always yearned for.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF CONVOCATION

Ms Zama Mncube

As the newly-elected President of Convocation, I'd like to take this opportunity to congratulate each of you, on this momentous achievement.

As the Graduating Class of 2021, having endured the majority of your studies while going through a worldwide pandemic with its concomitant effects, you were challenged and tested in these difficult times. Yet here you are – celebrating one of the most joyous events in your life – your graduation! Your hard work and dogged determination is what steered you towards this path of fulfilling one of the many goals you will set for yourself.

This chapter of your life may have closed, but you are now open to a world of possibilities. Seize the opportunities that come your way and work towards a better life, while contributing towards improving your communities and the broader society. You are equipped with a qualification from DUT which is your passport to creating the future you want and leaving an indelible mark.

As you celebrate this great achievement, let us pay homage to those that have made sacrifices to ensure you fulfil your potential as a contributing member of society. I encourage you to consider staying in touch with your Alma Mater and actively participate in the various programmes and initiatives open to Alumni at DUT. Where possible, understanding that you are recent graduates and thus still finding your feet in the world of work and business, there are many students who still require financial support towards their studies and thus would appreciate any assistance in this regard. To make a donation, or if you know of individuals or organisations that can assist in this regard, kindly get in touch with the Advancement and Alumni Relations Office on the details below or to make a donation, go to the website, www.dutalumni.com and click on "Ways to Give". Select one of the three payment options. It is that easy.

We hope that you have created fond memories during your time at DUT. We look forward to welcoming you back should you choose to continue with postgraduate studies, which further enhances your skills and knowledge in the workplace. We would love for you to keep in touch with us – please regularly update your details so that you maintain your lifelong link with DUT, your Alma Mater.

The Graduating Class of 2021 – you have a bright future ahead of you.

Stay safe. Stay blessed.

Developing Measures to Improve Employee Engagement in Public Technical Vocational and Educational Training (TVET) Colleges in Gauteng Province, South Africa – An Investigation of Antecedent and Outcome Variables

Summary

The importance of TVET education in a South African context cannot be overemphasised. The South African Government envisioned TVET colleges as a critical medium that can significantly aid the growth of businesses and contribute immensely to economic development in South Africa. In order for this vision to come to fruition, the key drivers – TVET lecturers – have an integral role to play. However, these lecturers are faced with massive job-related and personal challenges that can create a disengagement between them and their job, and could potentially hamper the delivery of the TVETs' goals.

Adopting a quantitative methodology, the researcher investigated relevant antecedents and outcomes of employee engagement within the public TVET sector in Gauteng, South Africa. Results revealed that some of the proposed antecedents significantly predicted employee engagement. The study also supported the view that psychological conditions are positive antecedents of employee engagement, and that employee engagement can influence positive employee intention and behaviour in an organisation. Implications for the management of public TVET colleges and the South African government are discussed as viable options for providing conditions that aid the development of employee engagement and consequently organisational performance.

Sustainable Business Strategy for Small and Medium Enterprises in KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa

Summary

Academic research has shown that the majority (75%) of Small and Medium Enterprises in KwaZulu-Natal failed after operating for only three years. The primary reason for failure and premature closure of the business was due to unsatisfactory strategy formulation and execution. The downward trend of failing Small and Medium Enterprises has continued and remains a realistic problem today.

Vinay investigated the core element of 'Strategy' and the sub-elements of 'Change', 'Purpose' and 'Leadership' in the business environment. He found that all identified elements were needed to achieve a 'Sustainable Business Strategy'. Vinay created a model to assist Small and Medium Enterprises to operate for a longer term, to contribute towards the improvement of the economy, to assist with more job creation, and finally to enable Small and Medium Enterprises to grow into larger corporate organisations.

The Influence of Intrapreneurship on Public Sector Organisations: The Case of Parastatals in Zimbabwe

Summary

Parastatals in Zimbabwe are failing to execute the mandate of public service delivery effectively. This has rendered public services elusive to most citizens. Most parastatals are stuck in the old paradigm of management where public value is delivered through adherence to standards, hence the imperative for parastatals to invest in intrapreneurship becomes urgent.

Lucy used a mixed-methods research design to explore the influence of intrapreneurship on organisational performance. The study's major finding is that intrapreneurship has a positive influence on organisational performance. The findings assist leadership in parastatals to foster intrapreneurship by investing in an intrapreneurial architecture. An intrapreneurial framework was designed which may be implemented in parastatals to enable the entities to become high-performance organisations. The study recommends that intrapreneurship be adopted in PSOs as a strategy to enhance efficacy while achieving the twin goals of public value creation and economic efficiency.

Change Management Leadership and Its Impact on Employees' Resistance to Change: Case Study of Selected Automobile Companies in Durban Metropolitan Region of Kwa-Zulu Natal (South Africa)

Summary

This study is based on the contention that the world is shifting from an industrial paradigm to a post-industrial paradigm and, as a result, change ought to be managed effectively. Past literature reviewed indicated that there are neither appropriate models to address monumental changes in the automobile industry, nor tools to address resistance to change, due to inadequate leadership skills. The study explores the process of adapting dynamic change management leadership model at the selected automobile dealership companies in the Durban Metropolitan Region of KwaZulu-Natal. A sample size of 300 staff members and managers were conveniently considered, comprising 270 staff and 30 managers, in a mixed-method research study. To analyse the data quantitatively, inferential statistics and descriptive statistics were used. The hypothesised model formulated was tested with the structural equation model (SEM). Findings revealed no relationship between transformational leadership and resistance to change. However, there was a relationship between transactional leadership and resistance to change. Qualitative data were analysed using thematic analysis employing the NVIVO software package. Recommendations from the study include the application of the proposed change management leadership model and other intervention strategies mentioned in the study for the improvement of change management in the dealership companies.

Creative Leadership and Management in The Kwazulu-Natal Film Industry

Summary

KwaZulu-Natal has an emerging film industry that promotes economical growth and cultural identity with the emergence of small production companies and independent producers.

The researcher explored the impact of creative leadership and management in this emerging industry in terms of a Creative Leadership mathematical equation and a Creative Leadership Competency Framework.

By conducting a mixed research methodology approach, the mathematical equation was studied qualitatively, and the competency framework was studied quantitatively.

The mathematical equation identified seven key characteristics that distinguishes a creative leader in the film industry from other forms of leadership and can further be explored in the development of a creative leadership assessment tool.

The competency framework explored the relationship between the four key dimensions and the four key competencies and their ultimate effect on creative leadership and management in the KwaZulu-Natal film industry. The framework can be used as a conceptual basis for local film studies.

Influence of Incubation Hubs on Start-Ups in Harare, Zimbabwe

Summary

The slow growth of Zimbabwean start-ups is attributed to a lack of capacity to achieve the intended growth. The research sheds light on how incubation centres are being implemented and how beneficial they are. The practice of business incubation is a crucial endeavour that can aid the growth of new enterprises. This study sheds light on how start-up enterprises evolve when they are exposed to incubation centres.

To assess the influence of incubation on start-ups, the study used a qualitative methodology. To present the outcomes of the study, Joe used content analysis to analyse the data into thematic areas. The study found that hubs provided a well-structured strategy from beginning to end of the incubation process, allowing for better comprehension and lowering the risk of failure. The conclusions of this study have numerous theoretical as well as practical implications for incubation managers, policymakers, academic institutions, and start-up entrepreneurs.

The Influence of Broad-Based Black Economic Empowerment Policies on Organisational Effectiveness: A Case of South African Companies

Summary

B-BBEE is an integral part of the South African business landscape so long as there are real or perceived inequalities in the economy and society in general. The legislation came into effect to redress the economic imbalances caused by the apartheid system where black people were purposefully restricted from meaningful participation in the economy. Dzivhuluwani explored the influence of B-BBEE Policies on organisational effectiveness. He employed a mixed method approach to research where the primary data collection method was questionnaires with a 5-point Likert scale where respondents were required to complete multiple choice questions. He also employed the qualitative study where he used interviews with selected respondents. The study findings confirmed that B-BBEE had a positive impact on organisational effectiveness with specific reference to managerial effectiveness, organisational sustainability, organisational strategy and organisational culture.

Exploring Corporate Governance Practices on State Entities: A Case Study for Umgungundlovu District Municipality

Summary

There is ongoing concern regarding the inability of State entities to provide adequate services to communities due to lack of performance. This growing phenomenon has led to increasing protests by communities across various district municipalities. Given the rampant protests actions across local municipalities, there is an urgent need to practice good governance in municipalities. Jey Difference Nyalungu evaluated the impact of corporate governance practices on the performance of local municipalities to ascertain the depth of corporate governance knowledge and principles in municipalities.

In his research, Jey Difference Nyalungu found that the knowledge of corporate governance principles across local government is inadequately low. The study found that inadequate practice of accountability contributes to poor performance whilst the principle of fairness largely contributes to performance. There is therefore the need to encourage practicing corporate governance principles across all spheres of state entities. Incorporation the practice of corporate governance principles practices will add value as it has the potential to minimise corruption and enhance performance.

An Analysis of Policy Impact and Stream Water Quality Practices on Knowledge, Attitudes and Behaviour Toward Stream Restoration Practices in Umlazi Township, Kwazulu Natal, South Africa

Summary

Environmental knowledge and environmental policies influence behaviour change towards environmental-policies adherence. Rivers in Umlazi are one of the most polluted rivers in South Africa which results in reports of death resulting from illegal dumping. There is limited understanding of how policy and stream water quality influence people's environmental knowledge, attitude and behavioural practice.

The aim of this study was to determine policy impact on knowledge, attitudes and behaviour toward stream restoration practices in Umlazi Township, KwaZulu Natal, South Africa

A sequential mixed method design was used in this study. Interviews and focus group discussions were used to collect data from the municipality and community organisations under exploratory design. A survey on community members of Umlazi validates the interview and focus group findings.

Altering physical and natural environment as part of SEM and improving living conditions of the citizens can be conducted by the government to yield better public health outcomes. Beta coefficients (0.168) for policies findings suggest policy impact has biggest influence in predicting behavioural change towards stream restoration and in decision making than attitude and knowledge. Even though there was lack of proper knowledge on stream water quality testing, poor attitude towards stream restoration practice was highlighted throughout the study. Citizens' behaviour and attitude instead highlighted social disapproval towards clean stream management and 76.3% highlighted concerns of children being more vulnerable to health and safety risks.

The study proposes a model that suggests that sustainable management of river ecosystems requires a stronger inter-disciplinary approach and reclaiming the 'water sector' from the margins to the centre of policy-making.

The Influence of Key Risk Drivers on The Performance of SMMEs In the Manufacturing Sector in Kwazulu-Natal

Summary

Small Medium and Micro Enterprises (SMMEs), especially those in the manufacturing sector are key contributors to sustainable socio-economic development, constituting majority of enterprises not only in South Africa but globally. However, despite their importance, manufacturing SMMEs continue to fail despite various interventions available to them. In a bid to address this challenge, Helper adopted a unique approach to establish key risk drivers of manufacturing SMMEs in KwaZulu Natal province. Marking a departure from previous studies, advanced econometric modelling techniques were employed to establish SMME sales and growth performance drivers which were then modelled using Artificial Neural Network and Support Vector Machines respectively. The study established the complexity of SMME risk drivers and demonstrated that machine learning techniques are more ideal to conduct SMME performance predictive analytics. This informed the development of a dedicated SMME sector machine learning predictive model that is being IP registered and commercialised through the DUT Technology Transfer and Innovation Directorate. A total of five articles were published in DHET accredited journals and four conference presentations were made based on this thesis.

A Systems Approach for Enhancing Entrepreneurial Leadership in Learning for Zimbabwe: The Case of Hilbright Science College in Harare and Mutare

Summary

The ever-changing complex environment calls for learning methods that match the dynamic workforce demands. Both High Schools and Universities are churning out of school leavers and graduates that fail to meet the socio-economic, and the changing workforce requirements.

Blessing explored the possibilities of enhancing Entrepreneurial Leadership in learning using a Soft Systems Methodology at Hilbright Science Colleges in Zimbabwe. Blessing developed nine conceptual models for enhancing EL in learning that depict the leverage points dealing with the dynamics of the interacting variables, interdependencies, feedback systems within the learning system. By mainstreaming entrepreneurial thinking it is possible to improve to improve the quality of learning and in turn the sustainable economic development of Zimbabwe.

Sustainable Human Capital Strategy for White Youth in A Transformed South African Navy

Summary

The SA Navy is required to play a vital role in ensuring that peace prevails within the maritime space on the African continent. For the SA Navy to successfully deploy its maritime resources externally, it should deploy human capital that reflects the demographics of the Republic. This would ensure international and regional legitimacy and recognition on its part. The continuous decline in the number of white people joining this arm of the service prompted an investigation on the part of the researcher.

Qualitative and quantitative research with the serving members and also the questionnaire survey with high school learners targeting white people were administered. It is apparent from the study that an effective, sound and sustainable human capital strategy is required to ensure the attraction and retention of competent white youth in the SA Navy. A comprehensive, coherent and effective career management model must be developed and implemented to all.

Building a Culture of Peace and Nonviolence: Enhancing Shona Traditional Court Systems

Summary

In traditional Shona culture, gender roles are given and traditional leaders have no other way of knowing than hegemonic discourses which draw on dominant cultural, traditional and religious value systems which produce patriarchal norms and rules of behavior that are internalized as beliefs and customs. Without conscientisation, Shona traditional courts systems remain bonded to systems of oppression and contrary to their peacebuilding role and they may participate in gender-based violence. Through a participatory action research design, Brian developed and tested an integrated framework for the analysis and design of a discursive intervention in oppressive gender relations. A gender training manual has been produced from the findings of the study: it is intended to serve as a template for traditional leaders to acquire gender transformative values and knowledge and to develop gender transformative skills and attitudes that are necessary conditions to live in harmony with themselves, others and their environments.

Exploring the Strategic Approaches to Prevent and Combat Xenophobia in South Africa: Case Study of Refugees and Asylum Seekers Living in Chesterville (Durban)

Summary

Soon after the 1994 first democratic election that took place in South Africa, thousands of refugees and asylum seekers have made their ways to South Africa, seeking for safety and protection. However, their influx was not well perceived by the local South Africa, as they have developed a negative attitude against migrants, and see these latter as threats to their socio-economic welfare. That has resulted to series of deadly xenophobic violence, affecting hundreds of refugees and asylum seekers living in townships and informal settlements. This study explored the strategic approaches to prevent and combat xenophobic violence and build friendship between the local South Africans and migrants. Through dialogues and workshops between both groups, the study gave the opportunity to participants to interact, share personal stories, and listened to each other; coupled with that, the study adapted group contact to give the participants the opportunity to discover their similarities and commonalities, and carry out project together keeping in mind the principle of "ubuntu". These positively transformed their negative attitudes towards each other and helped build friendship. These findings have relevance for preventing xenophobic violence in South Africa and other countries, also the findings can be extended to contribute to reduced similar prejudice attitudes such as racism.

Monitoring and Evaluation of Peacebuilding Programmes Among Civil Society Organisations in Kenya

Summary

Civil society organisations play a key role in resolving communal conflict in many areas in Africa. These organisations depend on external donor funding to support their programmes and submit progress reports on programme outcomes based on a rigid, linear and logical framework. This form of monitoring and evaluation, however, does not take account of the context of communal conflicts, which are ever-changing and highly unpredictable. Thomas worked with four such organisations in Kenya and trained their staff to collect data on the outcomes of their programmes using the outcome harvesting approach. This resulted in a much wider list of outcomes being identified, some of which were expected and some which were not. The approach provided a much wider range of data and has the potential to assist civil society organisations and their donors to be more effective in resolving communal conflicts.

Challenges and Best Practices in The Use Of E-Learning Technologies for Teaching and Learning at Uots – A Case Study of The Durban University Of Technology

Summary

Higher education institutions (HEIs) have re-designed their curricula to merge existing teaching and learning content with technological practices and applications. Although not a compulsory exercise within HEIs initially, the Covid-19 pandemic led to HEIs being forced to embrace online technologies for teaching and learning. This study focussed on the challenges and best practices in the use of e-learning technologies for higher education, with the Durban University of Technology being the case study subject. A quantitative methodology was adopted, with the samples being selected from full-time lecturers and full-time students from all faculties. The findings of the study informed the development of a framework of strategies to address the challenges with respect to teaching with e-learning technology, learning challenges, resource challenges and lesson and assessment challenges. The best practices identified cater for the provision of training and development, improved academic activities and the adequate provision of appropriate resources to ensure successful online pedagogy.
