

A Promising Start for Sthabile Ngubane at DUT

-Orientation day

Starting a new academic journey can be both exciting and challenging, but for Sthabile Ngubane from Ladysmith, her first days at the Durban University of Technology (DUT) have already proven to be inspiring and rewarding.

A proud former learner of Windsor Secondary School, Ngubane has enrolled under the Faculty of Management Sciences to pursue her studies in Operations. With a clear vision for her future and a strong passion for learning, she is eager to gain the knowledge and practical skills that will prepare her for success in the industry.

Ngubane shared that one of the highlights of her experience so far has been the warm and welcoming campus environment. She emphasised how easily she has been able to socialise, meet new people, and build meaningful acquaintances. “The University already feels like home,” she said. “It’s a good place to grow, learn and be happy.”

Her positive outlook and willingness to engage with others reflect the vibrant student life that DUT proudly offers. As she begins this new chapter, Ngubane looks forward to embracing every opportunity that comes her way and contributing meaningfully to the campus community.

DUT continues to welcome driven and enthusiastic students like Sthabile, whose journeys embody the spirit of growth, connection, and academic excellence.
