

Thabani wearing an outfit designed by Nompilo Sambo.

Olwethu wears a Bianca van Rooyen outfit.

Fashion's future on show

Catherine wearing a Sasha Tomlinson creation.

THE culmination of three years of hard work for fashion and textiles students at the Durban University of Technology (DUT) will be on show from Wednesday to Friday next week. Forty third-year students will show their ranges under the "Genomorph" theme, with the best 20 ranges on show on Friday night, when awards will be presented in five categories: most innovative range, best range on show, best menswear range, most commercial range and best technical range. Shows are at 7pm each day at the Sports Centre, Steve Biko Campus, Gate 4, and tickets at R50 each are available from Computicket. DUT has been the breeding ground for many of Durban's top designers such as Umeshan Naidoo, Francois Vedemme, Dion Chang, Amanda Laird-Cherry, Craig Native, Colleen Eitzen and Terrence Bray. So, if you want to watch history being made in the class of 2011, don't miss Genomorph. We randomly chose some of the students' designs to whet your appetite.

Thabani wearing clothes designed by Phumzile Sibisi.

Olwethu wearing an outfit by Samiksha Lochan.

Pictures: Andrew McGibbon
Make-up: Amy Lee from Pout School of Make-Up
Hair: The Salon
Models: Catherine, Thabani and Olwethu of Ice Models