Bachelor Degree of the Built Environment in Urban and Regional Planning (BBURPI)

Location: Steve Biko Campus (S3 Level 4)

Description of the Programme
Urban and regional planners work within a diverse range of activities in which they develop land use plans, in order to develop and help create communities, and improve existing areas. Planners engage with the effects of population growth, migration and their impact on settlements, including towns, cities and city regions within the constitutional mandate of the country and its laws. The typical work of an urban and regional planner includes:
- Meeting with communities, public officials and developers about development plans and land use,
- Administration of government policies and plans that affect land uses, for example the National Development Plan 2030 and Spatial Planning and Land Use Management Act of 2013,
- Gather and analyse data from a range of sources such as land use surveys, census information, and economic and environmental information, traffic surveys, housing and community surveys for a variety of applications,
- Manage and assess proposals for development including development controls in relation to land use applications such as special consent, rezoning, subdivision of land, etc.
- Design and layout of existing township extensions, commercial and industrial layout, housing projects, or informal settlement upgrading,
- Cartographic work including the preparation of cadastral plans using Geographic Information Systems (GIS) and Computer Aided Draughting (CAD) software and is used to integrate data such as population density with digital maps,
- Assists in community participation processes to establish their needs, issues and goals. This is typically done through research, analysis of data and community engagement and collaboration to develop local strategies for development, and
- Planners often collaborate with a range of other professionals in the built environment such as architects, civil engineers, surveyors, environmental practitioners, property developers, lawyers and public officials.

Career opportunities
Urban and regional planning is projected to grow as the momentum for implementing the National Development Plan takes shape, and has been identified as a scarce skill. Planners are typically employed in the private sector, planning firms, local provincial authorities, and service organisations. Both technical planners and professional planners work in government departments at municipal, provincial and national levels and in state owned enterprises. In the private sector, there are career opportunities in planning firms and a range of other sectors such as community organisations and property development.

Duration & Structure of Course
The duration of the programme is 3 years of full-time study. The programme is based on semester modules. The programme is based on core planning modules and general education modules. Students are expected to complete 33 modules for this programme.
