

Good news for Chatsworth student on Youth Day

Chatsworth student Kereshan Naidoo (19) had every reason to celebrate Youth Day, having just been awarded a bursary of R 14 000, by Ellerine Holdings Trust Fund for the 2012 academic year.

He earned the bursary through having achieved four distinctions in examinations last year, at Durban University of Technology, during his 1st year of studies towards a National Diploma in Information Technology. EHTF administers bursaries and donations on behalf of Ellerine Holdings Limited (EHL) which has more than 1 000 retail furniture outlets, in Southern Africa, with well-known brands such as Ellerines, TownTalk, FurnCity, Savells Fairdeal, Beares, Lubners, Furniture City, Geen & Richards, Dial a Bed, Chateau D'Ax and Wetherlys.

In the past 17 years EHL, through the EHTF, has invested more than 20 million Rand in bursaries for academically-deserving students who are dependants of employees at these stores. "Trustees will continue to invest in young achievers through tertiary education that helps to lay the foundations for successful careers," said Graham Adie, Chairman of the EHTF. "And, we trust that the students will continue to achieve as a result of this investment," he added.
