

Steven is all about sport!

By PULENG MOLOI

HIS radio fans know him by his closing line: "I am Steve Bhengu".

Steven Bhengu, from Woodlands, is a popular sports presenter on Gagasi FM.

He said it takes dedication and vision to be successful in the cut-throat radio industry.

Bhengu started presenting sport at Gagasi FM in his second year at the Durban University of Technology, where he studied journalism.

But it hasn't been an easy road for the 24-year-old.

He told Daily Sun that certain sacrifices have to be made for one to be successful in the pursuit of achieving their goals.

"I had to miss lectures and work my time around campus life just to be on radio.

"My parents were under the impression that I was neglecting my studies because I concentrated on updating myself with sport for the station, he said.

Steven told SunBuzz that Lady Luck was on his side because he is fortunate to be doing what he loves.

Even through his high school days, he was popular for his dazzling skills on the sports field.

"I made it a lifestyle. Presenting sport only made me more passionate about my job," said Steven.

He is most passionate about soccer, rugby and is a big fan of body-building.

His drive and ambition got him to where he is today.

"My advice to people who want to get into the industry is to give everything you've got, or don't do it at all," he said.

Steven Bhengu in studio at Gagasi
FM.

Photo by Steven Brown